The UCJCI Calls for Reparatory Justice

Another Emancipation Day, August 1, 2020, dawned on us in a time when there is an upsurge globally of consciousness as to the historical damage done to black identity and lives in the world. Recent protests point globally to greater acceptance that the centuries of enslavement of Africans and their use for free labour has been one of, if not the greatest, atrocities to ever thread the quilt of human history.

Slavery not only enriched families, family-owned businesses and nations, but it enriched some churches of that time as well. Enslavement of African people and the native genocide was orchestrated and perpetrated over centuries in which colonizers were the beneficiaries. Rather than compensating the formerly enslaved at the declared Emancipation, it was the slave owners who were compensated in the amount of some 20 million pounds sterling, which constituted 40% of Britain's national budget in 1833. The period of four years of the Apprenticeship System served as a further method of enriching the former enslavers.

In seeking to live out our In Jamaica and the wider Caribbean, the Church was often complicit in a system calling, we particularly val- propagating and profiting from the enslavement of Africans. The dominant theologies undergirded the sinful ideologies of the day. The Colonial Church Union existed in the 19th Century as a means of quelling any and all forms of slave resistance or uprising.

We thank God for the witness of those Christians who, through the conviction of of the Holy Spirit, proclaimed liberty to the captives in word and deed. The gosthankfulness, the commit- pel message of liberation inspired the enslaved and freed people to throw off the yoke of bondage.

Our Church, over the years, through its process of renewal and transformation, has sought to come to grips with the challenge to reflect on its complicity in past sins, and the perpetuation of mental slavery. In its quest for true emancipation the world; the proper care and social justice for the captives, the Church has made its own call to former and optimal use of the re- colonial masters to compensate formerly enslaved people for the horrible atrocities of the past and the lingering legacies that stifle the development of our people. Not only do we, the United Church in Jamaica and the Cayman Islands, work; and the care of God's firmly support the call for reparations from relevant state authorities, but have creation (1 Peter 4:10, 1 Co- sought through our global network to set an example of introspection, repentance and restitution.

LEADERSHIP CORNER Leaders Are Needed at Every Level of the Organization

he difference between two equally talented teams is leadership. Leadership is what makes the difference at every level of the organization. Everything rises and falls on leadership. It really does. If you don't believe it, just put together a group of people without a leader, and watch them. They will drift. When there is no good leader on a team, in a department, at the top of an organization, or heading a family, then the following results are inevitable.

WITHOUT A LEADER, VISION IS LOST. If a team starts out with a vision but without a leader, it is in trouble. Why? Because vision leaks. And without a leader, the vision will dissipate and the team will drift until it has no sense of direction.

On the other hand, if a team starts with a leader but without a vision, it will do fine because it will eventually have a vision. Leaders are visionary. They are always headed somewhere. They have vision, and that vision gives not only them direction, but it gives their people direction.

WITHOUT A LEADER, AGENDAS ARE MULTIPLIED. When a team of people come together and no one is clearly the leader, then individuals begin to follow their own agendas. And before long, all the people are doing their own thing. Teams need leadership to provide a unifying voice.

WITHOUT A LEADER, CON-FLICTS ARE EXTENDED. One of the most important roles of a leader is conflict resolution. In the absence of clear leadership, conflicts always last longer and inflict more damage. Often it takes a leader to step up, step in, and bring everyone to the table to work things out. When you lead others, you should always be ready to do what it takes to help your people resolve their conflicts.

WITHOUT A LEADER, MO-RALE IS LOW. Napoleon said, "Leaders are dealers in hope." When leaders are not present, people often lose hope and morale plummets. Why is that? Because morale can be defined as "faith in the leader at the top."

WITHOUT A LEADER, PRO-DUCTION IS REDUCED. The first quality of leaders is the ability to make things happen. Leaders are creative in finding ways to help others become productive. Sometimes it means laying out a challenge. Sometimes it means giving people training. Sometimes it means encouraging or putting up incentives. If the same thing worked for every person in every situation, then there would be no need for leaders. Because every person is different and circumstances are constantly changing, it takes a leader to figure out what's needed and to put that solution into action.

WITHOUT A LEADER, DE-CISIONS ARE DELAYED. I love a story that President Reagan told, showing how he learned the need for decision making early in his life. When he was young, a kind aunt took him to have a pair of shoes custom made. The shoemaker asked him if he wanted his shoes to have square toes or round toes, but Reagan couldn't seem to make up his mind.

"Come back in a day or two and let me know what you decide," the shoemaker told him. But Reagan didn't go back. When the man saw him on the street and again asked him what kind of shoes he wanted, Reagan said, "I haven't made up my mind yet."

"Very well," the man responded.
"Your shoes will be ready tomorrow."

When Reagan went to pick them up, he discovered that the toe of one shoe was round and the other was square. Reagan later said, "Looking at those shoes taught me a lesson. If you don't make your own decisions, somebody else makes them for you."

Not all good decision makers are leaders, but all good leaders are decision makers. Often it takes a leader to make decisions—and if not to make them, then to help other make them more quickly.
